Rebel Chief To Be Joined By Urrutia

Provisional Regime To Be Established In Strife-Torn Capital

HAVANA (AP) - The bearded rebel leader Fidel Castro made arrangements for a quick flight to Havana today to restore authority to this strife-torn capital.

A Viscount airliner was warmed up to bring Castro and Judge Manuel Urrutia, the man he has designated for temporary president, from their provisional capital of Santiago at the eastern end

The prospects were good that the provisional government would be set up by nightfall.

Jubilation swept the 1,225,000 residents in Havana with the report that a triumphal appearance was not far off for the 32-year-old Castro, who drove dictator Fulgencio Batista into exile New Year's Day.

The first task facing the new regime is to restore order and to that has paralyzed this big resort capital and created a growing food shortage.

Radio stations broadcast new warnings that anyone caught looting or stirring up disorder would be dealt with severely.

control of the whole island, but they still face the prospect of cleaning up die-hard remnants of the Batista regime hiding out in

Maj. Gen. Eulogio Cantillo, chief of the armed forces under the short-lived military junta that took over after Batista had fled to the Dominican Republic, was arrested. Castro had accused Cantillo of betraying him after making a deal to hand over Batista reins of the Cuban government.

Batista Lost The Sugar

The circumstantial evidence is that the Cuban revolutionists have won and the established government has lost. Fulgencio Batista, Cuban president, has fled to the Dominican Republic - and that would indicate he has conceded the success of the revolution. But it is still too early to be positive.

Like the battle against sin, the revolution in Cuba goes on and on. Fidel Castro didn't have to overthrow the Batista regime to win. It would lose if it could not destroy him and his revolutionary followers.

There are more of these now, apparently, than there were a year ago. Certainly there are more than there were five years ago, when Castro was a student agitator.

Many observers have tried to put into words what he stands for in his role as a revolutionist, without marked success. But there is no difficulty in describing what he stands against - the dictatorship of Fulgencio Battista, who has dominated Cuban politics for more than 25 years.

It may be, as Batista says, that Castro's followers include criminals and Communists. They may be all the things their critics say they are. But essentially they are Cubans opposed to the continuation of Batista, and in that opinion they have been gaining converts rapidly enough to hold their own in a war of

The United States, once committed to intervene in Cuban politics, is staying out of the clash, though it has been obliged to help the government in power in the same way it must help all established governments which it recognizes. Its interest in Cuba is twofold first as a strategic location in national defense plans, second as a source of sugar.

The sugar harvest begins this month. It had been evident for a long time that if the Batista regime could not keep Castro and his followers from interfering with the harvest, it would have no claim on perpetuity. Cuban governments exist primarily to make certain that nothing can happen to the sugar

There were some who suspected the Batista regime's primary interest had been to make certain that nothing could happen to the U.S.-supported gambling industry in Cuba -a suspicion confirmed by the fact the gambling casinos were the first targets of revolutionary wrath when revolutionists began to run riot in Havana.

They're Talking A Different Language

This is the time of the year when family budgets are made out.

First, income. Then, fixed expenses. Then, savings. Then, a list of things the family would do if it could afford to do them. The list is trimmed until it and the fixed expenses and the savings are no greater than income.

That's budget-making, family style. But it's not budget-making the way the Happy Spenders do it in Washington - and that explains the chasm between all of them and all the rest of us who always have thought the idea of budget-making was to live inside foreseeable income.

They think the idea of budget-making is to make income meet their specifications for the spending they intend to do. Thus, if Mother would like to remodel the kitchen, Sister wants a mink cape, Junior wants a car of his own and Pop wants a cabin cruiser, their wants are more important than the fact Pop is making barely enough to buy beans and has nothing better in sight

They rant about a government that becomes prisoner to fears of frittering away confidence in its currency. But in this case again, millions of Americans who have seen their savings watered down by half and who don't happen to hold a free pass on the inflationary gravy train think the most important thing there is - just as important as putting artificial moons in orbit or teaching the Brown brothers about the delights of homogenized yak milk - is stabilizing the buying power of money.

The separate faiths of three friends, a rabbi, a minister and a priest, have united to promote good will and religious understanding in Fresno, Calif., and then around the world. Rabbi David Greenberg and Msgr. James Dowling became friends while doing social work among cotton pickers and growers in the Valley. Joined by Dean James Malloch, the three went to work on the problem of juvenile delinquency in their area and achieved notable results.

Realizing that a lack of knowledge caused prejudice and hate, they began a Radio Forum of Better Understanding that is now in its 20th year and is broadcast to Europe, South America and the Orient by the Voice of America.

Although they differ on tenets of faith, they stand together in a common purpose.

the golden days of lend-lease. Anastas I. Mikoyan will undoubtedly have them in mind when he talks about trade next week in Washington. Trade is a favorite subject of Mikoyan and this is the field in which the Soviet deputy premier is an expert. Mikoyan and the Soviet govern-never caught on in Washington, but the Russians never get tired of suggesting such a program. Premier Nikita Khrushchev told

OUR SINCERE THANKS

The Salvation Army

"God be thanked." Romans 6:17

Under God, and with the co- | lady who interviewed us. Her operation of our many friends, we have endeavored to do our atmost to assure the less fortunate a share in the holiday festivities. As many experienced people know, the Ministry - and welfare service are often thankless tasks, so much is taken for granted.

In expressing our gratitude to all of you who responded so graciously to the appeal, we would like to share the following letter:

To The Salvation Army:

I want to take this time to convey my many thanks to The Salvation Army for the many thanks to the kind young Year.

kind voice and soft tone - and the music played on the piano by a gentleman - may seem trivial to some, but meant so much to me, and certainly did help to elevate my spirits. Oh, if the world only knew how much a few kind words and such wonderful music can mean to a depressed person! Thank you so very, very much and may God bless your organization always.

We know this acknowledgement will warm your hearts as it does ours.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily. Chapter Verses 1-14 22-35 16-17 Corinthians 10 Corinthians 11 23-28 10-15 Vednesday II Corinthians 9 Matthew 26 Friday

Have you tried to satisfy your appetite with a bit of candy or a hurried snack? The keen edge of hunger may leave-but only tempo-

There is another hunger innate in each of us. It is a spiritual hunger, our desire to have protection and help from God. Sometimes we do not really recognize this need. We feel only a restlessness, a longing for something better, an unexplained loneliness.

We often try to satisfy this mysterious hunger with the sweets of pleasure, to cover it up with the hurry of many activities. But it can never be really satisfied until we know God as our Heavenly Father, His Son as our Saviour. Jesus Christ said, "I am the bread of life; he that cometh to me shall never hunger." In the Church we find this Christ who offers us the true bread from heaven, the bread which alone satisfies our spiritual hunger.
